

A Better Way to Die

Paul Cornell has written Doctor Who for the BBC, Batman & Robin for DC, and Wolverine for Marvel. He has won the BSFA Award for his short fiction, the Eagle Award for his comics, and shares a Writers Guild Award for television. He is one of only two people to be Hugo Award nominated for all three media. A Better Way to Die is his first ever short story collection, providing a comprehensive overview of his work. Featured here are both his contributions to George RR Martins Wildcards series and all the Jonathan Hamilton stories, including One of Our Bastards is Missing, shortlisted for the Hugo Award in 2010, and A Better Way to Die, winner of a BSFA Award in 2011.
