

RED HAZE: The Dogs of War (The Red Haze Chronicles Book 3)

RED HAZE: THE DOGS OF WAR BOOK 3 OF THE RED HAZE CHRONICLES He is part man, part wolf. He is terrorism's worst enemy. His NATO codename is Red Haze and he is about to do battle with the greatest threat to European peace and stability, since the Second World War. Dateline: 19 March 2003 - 22.00 Hours The South Rumaila Oilfields, Southern Iraq A Special Air Service Recon Team parachute behind enemy lines at the beginning of Operation Telic, the British controlled section of the second allied invasion of Iraq. Among the four-man team is Trooper Ashley Ash Piper. After an initial attack on an Iraqi armoured column, Piper and his team are ambushed by Iraqi troops. Bloody mayhem and chaos ensue, with Piper suddenly, unexpectedly transforming into a horrifying wolf-like creature, eviscerating and ripping his enemies to shreds whilst saving the lives of two of his terrified colleagues. But why has this happened, and what disturbing secret is the SAS Trooper withholding, a secret originating from within the darkest recesses of his boyhood past? Only time will tell as Europe suddenly faces a series of sickening terrorist attacks across England, France, Germany, Holland and Belgium. Taking responsibility for the dreadful atrocities are a newly formed Islamic Fundamentalist Terrorist Cell, The European Muslim Freedom Fighters, seemingly in response to the American and British invasion of Iraq. But what are the real facts behind the brutal carnage and mayhem engulfing Europe, bringing about dire retribution against the target countries innocent Muslim and immigrant populations? In response to this new, insidious threat, Ash Piper finds himself embroiled in a world of sexual sadism and vicious close combat as he begins to unravel the truth regarding the dealings of German microchip magnate Otto Von Kurst and his mistress, the beautiful, sadistic physician, Doctor Lana Franke. But all is not what it seems as Piper discovers Von Kurst has shadowy links to Nazi Germany's Waffen SS Totenkopf (Deaths Head) division and the highly respected Russian businessman and entrepreneur, Vitali Menkov. In this, the third in a series of continuing, adult orientated, ground breaking werewolf novels to be published exclusively on the Kindle, Ash Piper finds himself in a truly desperate, gruesome scenario as Doctor Lana Franke's captive patient. Can Piper break free from the sinister, sadistic physicians operating theatre before Otto Von Kurst unleashes the full might of his Grenadiers on a very unsuspecting target? Through a welter of pain and torture Piper prepares for the fight of his life knowing full well that Europe's fate lies in his hands and claws. From the back streets of Rostov, Moscow and St Petersburg to the deserts of Iraq, to the cities of Amsterdam, Dusseldorf and Paris, the Ardennes Forest, Germany's Rhineland and deep into the Vatican itself, Ash Piper continues his fight against a sinister plot by Neo Nazi terrorists who are hell bent on bringing Europe into civil war and incinerating the very heart of the Roman Catholic religion. The countdown to anarchy is well underway and for NATO's new breed of covert assassin, not only must he face a dreadful world of violence and pain, he must also confront his own shocking past and a truly terrifying future. For Ash Piper and the wolf inside him are not alone. ONCE AGAIN, PREPARE FOR COMBAT! THE HUNT CONTINUES! Ian Redman is currently writing the fourth novel in the Red Haze series entitled RED HAZE: Lethal Symmetry, which is due to be published on the Kindle in September 2013. Further novels are also planned for the future including RED HAZE: Kill Me Again, RED HAZE: Bloodlines and RED HAZE: The Sons of Fenrir.
